

Atradius Global

A trusted partner for your multinational trade

We believe in the power of partnerships to deliver the best trade credit protection for your business. Personal service from a single, Global team, who work as one with you – regardless of borders, wherever you need us.

If you'd like to explore a refreshing new approach to managing your global trade credit risks, let's talk. You can find us at www.atradius.com/multinationals or email multinationals@atradius.com.

Our Atradius Global team provides a dedicated service that helps multinationals trade freely and confidently around the globe.

We're skilled at structuring tailored trade credit insurance policies that mirror your own strategy: including sectors, countries, centralised or decentralised policy structures and other elements that will make it as simple and effective as possible for you. Whatever your needs, we'll co-create your policy with you. It's a great way to get to know one another, too.

Experience has taught us that deep knowledge and mutual understanding – and the trust that comes with those things – lead to the best results. It means we get to know you so well that frank, open dialogue is our norm, wherever in the world we're working together. It means we're always on the front foot – and it empowers you to make well-informed decisions, as fast as you need to.

Everything we do is about supporting your business, steadily and sustainably, over time. It's a partnership: your long-term success is how we measure ours, too. Or, as we like to say, your business is our business: we're in it, together.

We're truly global

We have one P+L. One team with shared values and a unique spirit that spans every region. And our 160 offices in over 50 countries are integral parts of our network, not outposts. It means we're all fully aligned, up to speed and working with you on your business, wherever you need us.

One agreement, limitless flex

Because we take a modular approach, we tailor make your policy based on your needs, strategy, structure and geography. Centralised or localised, with universal or country-specific terms in the languages you'd like: we work with you to build a policy that's simple, cost-effective and a perfect fit.

We're in it, 24/7

Our team is there for you around the clock, whichever time zone you're in. You can also manage your policy online through our online tool or via integration with your systems, access business intelligence and reports on your portfolio at your own convenience.

We're experts

We know our stuff, and so do you. Our underwriting is top class – so is your knowledge of your customers. Together, we create a powerful whole that leads to great outcomes.

We're human beings

Sure, we're conscientious, expert, committed and collaborative. They're a given. But it's also personal. We consider ourselves part of your team – and you part of ours. We like working with good people. And we're pretty sure you do, too. It's important.

We're here to stay

Atradius has been going for almost a century and in the Global team, we've made this our sole specialism for over a quarter of that time. Cross-border working is second nature to us – we think that's why we've enjoyed partnerships with so many successful businesses around the world for so long. It's in our DNA.

We let our customers have the last word

"Together, we've been through market disruptions, a financial crisis, a merger and a global pandemic. Without your support, your analysis and your trust, my job would have been impossible."
